MEDICAL.

THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
623 KEARNEY STREET, COR. COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.
Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.
... many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or virus absorbed into the system! Look at their emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death ends the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these terrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are sought for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be aware of the many pretended doctors who infest the city, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiries, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.
Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse, solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz., sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,
... who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not enter the sacred responsibility resting upon them ... delay to obtain immediate relief.
DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding him elf to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Caution to the Unfortunate.
Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly papers of San Francisco and other places are unlicensed and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, as from advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Cured at Home.
Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post Office or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.
Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957. REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.
Consultations FREE.
Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. jy6d4p

Delano still Wants to Retire.

Secretary Delano has not abandoned his desire to retire from the cabinet, but the period at which this may take place is uncertain.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE.

Particulars of the New Sensation.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Counsel for Beecher say the signature of Evarts only is wanting to invite counsel for Tilton to unite with them in asking Judge Neilson to call the jury into court that they may be informed that the alleged newly discovered evidence embodied in the affidavits of Loeder and Price is a base fabrication, and that one of them had been arrested for perjury and the other had confessed.

Beecher's counsel hesitate to accept Beecher's request that the jury be notified of Loeder's perjury in whatever form or terms the former should prescribe. The Tribune says, "We learn they have considered the position in which the refusal places them. Loeder and Price might have lied till Christmas without doing any harm if Morris and Beach had not taken them up by the hand and introduced them to the court as respectable persons entitled to belief. The two wretched conspirators made up a monstrous falsehood which fell to pieces so quickly when it was subjected to the slightest examination that they were obliged to confess it false; but Beach and Morris took the responsibility of submitting that falsehood to the court as truth and practically putting it before the jury for the sake of affecting their decision in the momentous issue. Now that the fraud has been exposed they abandon the conspirators to their fate but decline to undo whatever wrong they may have accomplished."

The Herald shows the Tilton party necessarily was responsible for the surreptitious publication of the perjured affidavits in time to reach the jury because the defense had no copies and Judge Neilson has officially stated that he furnished none.

Morris violently refused yesterday to give the jury any new light on the subject and persisted after further conference with Tilton himself. Hamilton, who has been cited as a person to whom Loeder had told his story several years ago, declares that Loeder never told him anything that could be construed to indicate criminality of either Beecher or Mrs. Tilton.

Confederate Price's story to Jackson S. Shultz contains many particulars showing the assistance he received from Tilton and counsel to make his testimony clear and probable. A diagram of Tilton's house was drawn for him with instructions to study it until perfectly mastered. The exact position of the doors and pictures was also explained to him—how they opened, etc. Tilton impressed him with the method of describing his wife, telling him to say he was unable to recognize her, also to say that he don't remember the color of the carpet, he pretended to lay distinctly, but the pattern was small and bright. Subsequently he was taken to see Tilton's house so he could describe it. After this he was supplied with money and sent out of town in charge of a keeper and was kept drunk much of the time. Price's confession was procured by his father for the purpose of saving his son.

The Jury Disagreed.

BROOKLYN, July 1—2 P. M.—The jury have disagreed—11 for defendant, 1 for plaintiff. The judge sent them back to remain to 4 o'clock.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The Tilton-Beecher jury have been sent for and at 2 P. M. came into court. Foreman Carpenter stated they could not agree on the question of fact. The judge told them to disregard the subject of the affidavits submitted to him for a new trial and sent them back to their room to communicate with him at 4 o'clock.

NEW YORK, July 1.—When the jury entered the court room this afternoon Judge Neilson requested that the utmost silence be observed in court during the proceedings. The clerk called the jury who answered to their names in low tones.

Judge Neilson said he was sorry they could not agree, and asked them if the disputed question was one of fact or law.

Carpenter said it was impossible for the jury to agree and he regretted it very much. The question of disagreement was one of fact.

Judge Neilson called attention to the length of the trial and said that this was the first intimation he had from the jury. In our embarrassments said he, various considerations had been pressed on their attention. Attention had been called to the fact that, after argument and before the charge, some affidavits had been handed to him. He had examined them that evening and denied the motion for reopening the case, assuming for the moment that the jury would forget that subject. He would like to know if anything was lingering on their minds with regard to that matter and asked them if it would be suitable for them to state to him any questions of law or fact which disturbed them.

Carpenter repeated that it was simply a question of fact and no agreement was possible, that in a month they would be no nearer an agreement than they were to-day. He said he spoke for eleven of the jurors when he said he believed an agreement was impossible and that there was only one man who believed that they could ever reach a unanimous conclusion.

Judge Neilson spoke to them of the importance of the case and asked them to give it their further consideration, requesting them for that purpose to retire to their rooms and deliberate upon it further and communicate with him at about 4 o'clock.

Carpenter asked how they should communicate with him to which he replied it did not make any matter.

At 4 o'clock the jury returned to their rooms.

At 5 o'clock Judge Neilson entered the court room and said after due consideration he had arrived at the conclusion not to call the jury in to-day and he would take the opportunity of stating to reporters in attendance that he would give them an hour's notice when the jury were to be called. The judge then left the bench and the court was cleared of spectators.

Some persons in the court room got the idea from the remarks of Carpenter that the jury stood eleven to one. The fact is as explained by Gen. Tracy of Beecher's counsel that Carpenter simply meant to convey that eleven jurors had made up their minds that it was impossible for them to agree, while the twelfth deemed further examination of the evidence desirable and thought it might lead to a verdict.

Trial of the Conspirator.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The case of Loeder accused of swearing to a false affidavit against Beecher was resumed in the third district court, Brooklyn, to-day. James M. Pearsall testified he was clerk of Morris and Pearsall and was also a notary public; knew both Loeder and Price, the former since June 1, the first ... Price in the office of his employers. On the same date witness met Morris on the sidewalk, who asked him to swear Loeder and Price. On entering the office he found the affidavits partly drawn up. Judge Morris, General Pryor and Frank Moulton were present. Tilton was in the back office, but had nothing to do with the affidavits. Loeder's affidavit was finished by Moulton, after which it was read by Pryor and signed by Loeder, who carefully read it before affixing his signature. Price's affidavit was sworn to at the same time.

After Pearsall had concluded his evidence, Wilcox of the New York Herald was called and testified that he saw Loeder on Friday, June 11th, and told him he had been sent to him in regard to something he knew about Beecher and Mrs. Tilton. Loeder at first seemed reluctant to tell what he knew, but finally gave him the substance of the statement published in the Herald. The name of Loeder had been given him by one of the editorial staff.

The district attorney asked the editor's name, but witness thought it would not be proper to give it and the judge thought it was immaterial.

Witness had several conversations with Loeder. He found Price's name in the directory and went to see his father. He could not think his son knew anything about the affair and he had never heard him speak of it. He brought witness to where his son was, and after a series of questions he got the statement which he published.

J. C. Dand testified that he knew Joseph Loeder, who was doing some work for him. One evening in May witness went to Loeder's store and had a conversation with him in which he told him the circumstances of his going down the street at Mrs. Tilton's. When he went into the room he saw nothing criminally wrong, but the circumstances were suspicious, as he saw Beecher kiss Mrs. Tilton.

Walter J. Scott, clerk in the office of Morris & Pearsall, testified that he copied the affidavits, after which it was concluded to adjourn the examination until to-morrow. A motion was made to admit Loeder to bail, but the judge said he had no jurisdiction and the case was remanded.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Proceedings of the Democratic State Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The convention assembled at 10:30 this morning, the enthusiasm worked by the nomination of last night having evidently had the effect to delay the appearance of members.

Nominations for lieutenant governor being in order, James A. Johnson was placed in nomination by Dorsey, of Tuolumne. Lamott of Solano nominated R. C. Haile, of Solano. Judge Temple of Sonoma, presented the name of Geo. Pearce of Sonoma. Nonges, of San Francisco placed in nomination Frank McCoppin of San Francisco. Goodwin of Plumas presented the name of Marion Biggs of Butte. Morse, of San Joaquin, nominated A. C. Bradford of Tulare.

No other names being offered nominations were closed.

Biggs appeared on the platform and withdrew his name in a short speech in which he said he differed from Bidwell in that the latter had pulled up his wine vines to plant raisin vines while he himself had pulled up his vines to plant corn to make good Democratic whisky. [Tremendous applause.]

The roll was called. First ballot 342 votes cast, necessary for choice, 172; Johnson 119, Haile 17, Pearce 14, McCoppin 92, Bradford 90.

After taking the second ballot before the vote was announced a number of changes were made mostly in favor of Johnson. Haile and Pearce were withdrawn on motion without announcing the vote on the second ballot. A new roll call was had, resulting as follows: Number of votes cast 343; Johnson, 194; McCoppin 143; Bradford 6. Johnson was declared the nominee of the convention. On motion the nomination was made unanimous.

On motion adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The State convention reassembled at 2½, Judge Archer of Santa Clara in the chair.

Nomination of secretary of state being in order, Lorton of Santa Cruz placed in nomination Thomas Beck of Santa Cruz, and Stevens of Sacramento nominated W. B. C. Brown of Sacramento. First ballot 339 votes cast, necessary to choice 170; Beck 162, Brown 157. Beck was declared the nominee. He came on the stand in response to a call and thanked the convention for his nomination.

Nomination of controller being next in order, Jos. Roberts of Alameda, C. C. Coleman of Sacramento, Robinson Gibbons of Oakland and J. W. Mandeville of Tuolumne were placed in nomination. First ballot—Roberts 64, Coleman 37, Gibbons 11, Mandeville 211. Mandeville was declared the nominee.

Nominations for treasurer were Juan B. Castro, of Monterey; J. T. Estudillo of Alameda; A. G. Escandon of Ventura; J. G. Estudillo of San Diego; Otto Kloppenburg, of San Francisco. The nominations closed. On the first ballot the vote stood Castro 40, Estudillo of Alameda 15, Escandon 95, Kloppenburg 8, Estudillo of San Diego 1 ... Estudillo of San Diego was declared the nominee, and he addressed the convention briefly. The convention then adjourned to 8 P. M.

Independent Congressional Nominations.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Independent Congressional Convention for the First District this afternoon nominated John F. Swift for Congress against the strong opposition of a portion of the convention.

During the recess of the State convention the congressional convention of the third district held a meeting and nominated Henry Larkin of Eldorado for congressman and George J. Williams of Eldorado district judge for Eldorado, Amador and Calaveras.

Fatal Accident while Firing a Salute.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Pacific Mail steamer City of Tokio sailed for Japan and China to-day. As she left the wharf a salute of nine guns commenced in honor of her commander, Commodore Maury, recently appointed to command the Pacific Mail fleet. Patrick Lanigan by some fatal mistake was standing in front of the gun with the design of reloading when it exploded, blowing him into the bay. His body was recovered in forty feet of water by grappling, both arms were blown off and it was otherwise terribly mutilated. He leaves a wife and four children destitute.

THE FUNERAL OF JUDGE McFADDEN.

OLYMPIA, W. T., June 27, 1875.
To the Editor of the Oregonian:

This has been one of the long to be remembered days in Olympia. The funeral of our highly esteemed fellow citizen Hon. Obadiah B. McFadden, Sr., took place from the residence of Gen. W. W. Miller, son-in-law of the deceased, at 10:15 o'clock, A. M., under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, assisted by the order of Odd Fellows and Columbia Fire Engine Company No. 1, of which societies Judge McFadden had long been an honored member. The funeral procession marched from the residence of Gen. Miller, led by the Olympia Cornet Band, to the M. E. Church, on Fourth street, where an able, philosophical yet very touching sermon was preached by the Rev. John F. Wolfe. Long before the arrival of the corpse the church was literally jammed to its utmost capacity, barely sufficient seats being reserved for the family of the deceased. Yet it is not at all probable that one half the audience gained entrance to the building, so universal was the desire of our people to show their high regard for the memory of the distinguished dead.

The coffin was a beautiful one, well representing the generous feeling held for its deeply mourned occupant. It was almost entirely encircled in beautiful and magnificent wreaths of flowers, and stood on a pedestal entirely covered by flowers. All that loving hearts guided by artistic skill could do to render homage to the dead and even in a slight degree to soften the excruciating pangs of agony that tore the hearts of his bereaved wife and weeping children was most cordially done. At this funeral was seen in one congregation the entire community, regardless of standing, political and religious. Judge McFadden, of all others of our prominent men, was pre-eminently a man of the people, and it was a fitting occasion for the people to turn out en masse and show their regard for the man who near in a long life betrayed their confidence, or let an opportunity to do them good pass unimproved.

After the funeral sermon the procession was formed, led first by two officers of the Masonic fraternity, then the Olympia Cornet band, next Odd Fellows, followed by the Columbia Engine Co. and the Masons with their aprons and funeral paraphernalia, made a most imposing procession of not less than one hundred and forty men. Then came the hearse bearing the corpse, followed by forty carriages and wagons, all filled to their utmost capacity, to which was added a large number of persons on horseback and on foot. The procession marched in the most perfect order and respectful bearing to the solemn dirge like strains of music which were echoed back in awful grandeur from the grand old forest trees that were here before our lamented friend had placed his foot upon this fair land of his adoption.

On arriving at the cemetery, two miles from the city, all that was mortal of Judge McFadden was consigned to the clods of the valley, under the beautiful and impressive funeral ceremonies of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, while the stricken wife and disconsolate children returned to find a void in the family circle, and a longing in their hearts that nothing but the beautiful consciousness of an eternity of blessed reunion could reconcile.

The family and friends of O. B. McFadden can well point back to his life with pride and satisfaction. His life as a man was utterly and absolutely above reproach. As a public man Judge McFadden for more than thirty two years, has sustained an unsullied reputation for uprightness and clear sound judgment, with out partiality and without hypocrisy, ever the friend of the lowly and discouraged. When ever a contest arose between the laboring people and those in a position to grind them, Judge McFadden never once forsook the poor. Many is the time his noble heart and manly form has stood before the tribunal of justice to plead the cause of the poor when he well knew his only reward would be the approval of his own conscience and the gratitude of his fellow men, while at the same time he had been offered large sums of money by the wealthy to aid them in further grinding the needy—he being at the same time a poor man.

Although Judge McFadden has been for more than a third of a century an active participant in politics, he has never resorted to trickery or chicanery, or double dealing, which are the weapons of small minds. In all his intercourse with men he was uniformly courteous, affable and genial, yet he was as bold and fearless as Hercules when he saw a desire on the part of any, whether a political friend or enemy, to swerve from right. For many years past his name has been a synonym of integrity. When political rings had a dirty job to perform Judge McFadden was never consulted, never invited to be present, never informed of what was going on. Many were the political gatherings in this place to which he was not invited. Is not such a memory as that worth more than success? Yet Judge McFadden was successful. His great intellect and unswerving integrity forced respect till he reached the highest pinnacle of honor a Territory could bestow, and after serving the Territory two years in the National Legislature he returned home to his constituents to yield back to their hands untarnished but honored the trust they had given him.

It is a remarkable fact that Judge McFadden has been the recipient of the two greatest ovations, the cause of the two largest and most respectful processions ever formed in Olympia. The one in 1872 when he was the People's candidate for Congress, the other this day to pay the last sad respects to his memory.

This letter, though crude and not embellished with the beauties of rhetoric or rounded with the precision of an artist, is the spontaneous feeling of a sad hearted but true FRIEND.

DECISION IN THE U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

United States District Court—District of Oregon.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1875.

Ernestine Koch v. The Oregon Steamship Co. and the Oriflamme—In Admiralty.

Common carriers of passengers are bound to use extraordinary care and diligence and are excused only by reason of force or pure accident.

An undertaking to carry a passenger in the steerage of a steamship from San Francisco to Portland includes the furnishing of such passenger with a berth unless there is a fair understanding to the contrary.

A steerage passenger is entitled to the use of the steerage room to walk about or sit down in during the voyage without the risk or inconvenience of freight therein, but if freight is stowed therein it is at the risk of the carrier and it is his duty so to stow and secure it that no harm will be caused to the passengers by it; nor can the carrier impose any arbitrary regulation upon the passengers with a view of diminishing such risk—such as to remain in their berths during the voyage or any unusual portion of it.

Where a number of boxes of tin were stowed in the after part of the steerage so as to make a pile 6 feet in length, 4 feet in width and from 5 to 8 feet in height, without any means of preventing the top tiers from sliding off on the floor in case of rough weather, and a steerage passenger sat down by the side of said pile and was injured by the rolling of the ship causing some of the boxes to fall upon her: Held, That the stowing of the tin in the manner in which it was done was gross negligence and the carrier was liable to the passenger in damages for the injury.

Disfigurement of the person caused by such an injury is a proper subject of damages, but in estimating them it is proper to consider the condition and circumstances of the party disfigured.

DEADY, J.

This suit is brought by the libellant—Ernestine Koch—to recover $3,000 damages for injuries to her person caused by the negligence of the respondent and claimant—the Oregon Steamship Co.—while engaged in transporting her in the steerage of the steamship Oriflamme from San Francisco to Portland.

It is substantially alleged in the libel that a number of boxes of tin were so negligently and insecurely stowed in the steerage that the rolling of the ship caused some of them to be thrown on the libellant, whereby she was greatly injured and disfigured.

The respondent admits the contract to carry the libellant and that she was slightly injured during the voyage, but alleges that the boxes of tin were securely stowed in the steerage; that the libellant was furnished with a berth and directed to remain in it while crossing the San Francisco bar and during rough weather, but that the libellant left her berth and negligently sat down by said pile of tin upon some packages of baggage belonging to the steerage passengers when the motion of the ship caused said packages to roll from under her and she was thereby thrown upon the floor of the steerage and one of said packages of baggage was rolled against the libellant, and she was thereby or by being precipitated against the standard, supporting the berths, slightly bruised.

In addition to the libellant ten witnesses from among the steerage passengers were examined on her behalf as to the circumstances of the alleged injury. They were all Germans, but had no particular acquaintance or relation with the libellant and so far as appeared testified fairly and without prejudice.

For the respondent three witnesses were examined in relation to such circumstances—namely the steerage steward, the porter and the second mate. All these witnesses belong to the ship and testify under circumstances calculated to induce them to speak as favorably for the respondent as possible. Particularly is this the case with the mate, who is responsible for the manner in which the tin was stowed, and the steerage steward, whose duty it was to provide the libellant with a berth, if possible. The steward's testimony is not consistent with itself and is in direct conflict on material points with that of other witnesses who appear to be credible. He states that the pile of tin was not more than 18 inches high, and that he gave libellant a berth which she declined to occupy. The second mate says the pile was from 2½ to 25 inches high, and contained four tiers of boxes. The porter's testimony is silent as to the height of the pile prior to the accident. The men who stowed the tin under the direction of the mate were not called by the respondent, nor their absence accounted for. Neither was the chief steward, although he appears to have been in the steerage assisting in taking care of the libellant immediately after the accident.

The libellant and six of the steerage passengers swear positively that the pile was upwards of five feet high and the others state the circumstances concerning the casualty which strongly tends to prove the truth of this statement. For instance, if the pile of tin was only 18 inches or two feet high it is impossible that these passengers could have found the libellant on the floor, with some of the boxes of tin on top of her as they testify, unless the ship had turned upside down.

I find the facts to be as follows: The libellant, a respectable German servant girl, of 19 years of age on March 20, 1875, at San Francisco, while emigrating from Germany to Oregon, took passage on the respondent's steamship—the Oriflamme—for this port. The family with which she lived in Germany were cabin passengers on the same vessel, and had procured her a steerage ticket for $15.

The libellant could not speak English, and the steward in charge of the steerage could not speak German. Several of the passengers appear to have been without berths or sleeping accommodations of any kind. No berth was assigned to the libellant, nor was there any vacant one which she might have occupied except a lower one which was in an unfit condition.

In the after part of the steerage a number of boxes of tin weighing about 100 pounds each were stowed against the bulkhead dividing it from the freight room, making a pile of about six feet across the vessel, three feet fore and aft and from five to eight feet high. The pile was somewhat in a pyramidal form—sloping back towards the bulkhead and center from the lower tier or base. Cleats were put around the base of the pile to keep it from sliding bodily, but there were no means taken to keep the upper tiers in their place or from slipping off the pile. Around the base of the pile was stowed a number of carpet sacks, and hand trunks and bundles belonging to the steerage passengers.

The ship left the dock between 10 and 11 o'clock A. M., and the libellant, at the suggestion of some of the Germans in the steerage, placed her carpet sack at the end of the pile on the starboard side of the ship and sat down on it. Somewhere about 1 o'clock of the same day, between the San Francisco bar and Point Reyes and about five or six miles north of the bar, while the vessel was going at usual speed with a heavy swell on her side, she rolled so far over to starboard that several of the boxes of tin slipped off the top of the pile and struck the libellant on her head and right shoulder and threw her forward on her face. Several of the passengers immediately ran to her assistance when they found her stunned or fainted away, while the carpet sacks, hand trunks and boxes of tin were lying around her and some of the latter on her body and legs. They immediately removed the boxes and drew her from among them. Word of the accident was at once sent on deck and the steerage steward and the porter—the latter of whom could speak German—came down and took charge of the girl. Her face was covered with blood from a contused cut to the bone on the forehead over the right eye and about one inch in length. Her right shoulder and arm were badly bruised as were also her legs—and particularly one of her ankles. After cleaning her face and binding up the wound on her forehead they placed her in a berth in the steerage, where she remained without any other care or attention so far as appears, until the next day when she was removed to the lower or servant's cabin in the after part of the vessel and placed in a berth where she remained until she reached Portland and left the vessel.

The medical experts are of the opinion that the bone was not injured by the wound on the forehead, although it may have been. It is not yet healed. For some reason not satisfactorily explained by the testimony, the wound does not heal and still suppurates. At times the libellant suffers severe pain in the head on account of it and cannot do labor which requires her to exert herself by lifting or stooping. Still it is not probable that any permanent injury will result from the wound. But she received a very severe shock of the brain and came very near losing her life. The scar resulting from the wound will be permanent and somewhat disfigure the libellant. It will be about ¾ of an inch in length, ¼ of an inch in greatest width and irregular in outline. The arm and lower limbs are recovered from the bruises.

The libellant does not appear to have been visited by the master of the ship after the accident or to have received any medical attendance or special care or nursing. She was lying in the berth on her back probably in a partially comatose or delirious state most of the time until she reached Portland. During this time she was visited occasionally by the stewardess and porter, but took no food or nourishment and did not change her clothes. She was able to walk when removed from the steerage to the lower cabin, with the assistance of a person on either side and walked to a house near by when she left the ship at Portland, but she was confined to her bed for some days afterward, during much of which time she had fever and was delirious. Within two weeks after her arrival in Portland she went into service in a family in the city, where she still remains, but is not yet able to do a woman's work on account of her head.

Upon this state of facts there can be no doubt as to the liability of the respondent. In Shearman & Redfield on Neg., § 266, the rule in regard to carriers of passengers is laid down as follows:

"Out of special regard for human life, and acting upon the presumption that every man who commits his person to the charge of others expects from them a higher degree of care for his bodily safety than they would bestow upon the preservation of his property, the law very wisely exacts from a carrier of passengers for hire the utmost care and skill which prudent men are accustomed to use under similar circumstances."

There does not appear to have been any special contract that the libellant was to be furnished with a berth during the voyage, nor has it been shown that there is any statute of the United States applicable to the subject. For although, on this occasion the Oriflamme sailed from a "port in the United States" to a port "on a tributary of the Pacific Ocean," and is therefore within the letter of § 4265 of the R. S., I cannot think she was within the spirit of it or within the contemplation of Congress when the act was enacted. Still, I think the undertaking to carry a passenger, either in the steerage or cabin, between the ports of San Francisco and Portland, ought to be construed to include the furnishing of such passenger with a berth, unless there was a fair understanding beforehand, that the passenger was to make the voyage without it, and this is particularly so in the case of a female passenger traveling alone. The want of a statute of the United States imposing a penalty upon the carrier for not furnishing berths upon this route, does not effect the question of whether he is bound to do so by his undertaking or not. Such an omission only proves that Congress has not yet seen proper to secure the performance of the contract of the carrier in this respect, by the imposition of a penalty for non performance. And this seems to have been the theory of the matter upon which the answer of the respondent was framed, for, as has been stated, it is therein alleged that the libellant was furnished a berth.

There was then, negligence upon the part of the ship in not furnishing the libellant a berth. But it does not necessarily follow that this negligence was the cause of the injury received by the libellant. It might have happened, as it did, even if the libellant had been furnished with a berth, for she was not bound to stay in it. She had a right to be up and about in the steerage if she was able and so inclined and it was the duty of the respondent to keep the steerage room a safe place for her to walk about or sit down in so far as the utmost care and skill of a cautious, prudent person would provide under like circumstances.

Ordinarily the steerage passengers are entitled to the use of the steerage room, free from the risk or inconvenience of freight therein. Cases may arise in which the passengers are so few in number in proportion to the size of the room that there can be no objection to some portion of it being used as a freight room. But in such case the carrier takes the risk, and it is his duty to so stow and secure such freight that the passengers will not be injured by it, nor can he require them to obey any arbitrary regulation with a view of diminishing such risk—for instance, to remain in their berths during the voyage or any unusual portion of it.

It is not satisfactorily shown what number of steerage passengers were on board the Oriflamme on this voyage. The steerage steward says he thinks there was 60 or 70 of them. Nor is there any evidence as to the size of the steerage room.

But under any circumstances the stowing of this tin in the steerage, in the manner in which it was done, was gross negligence on the part of the respondent. It was the direct cause of the injury received by the libellant, without any fault or contributory negligence on her part. She had a perfect right to sit down by the side of the pile, unless she knew it was dangerous or was duly warned to avoid it. But she was not so warned, nor can it be claimed under the circumstances that she was aware or had good reason to know of the danger. Apparently it was the most convenient and secure place in the room of which she could avail herself to sit or lie down, and be out of the way of the crowd to whom she was a stranger.

The libellant claims $3,000 damages for the injuries received and expenses incurred on account of them.

For everything beyond the actual expense and loss of time incurred on account of the injury, the damages can only be estimated in a general way. In making this estimate regard must be had to the condition in life and the circumstances of the parties. Hanson v. Fowle, 1 Saw. 545. The respondent is a corporation engaged in transporting passengers and freight between this port and San Francisco. It is the owner of the steamship Oriflamme, but of what other property, if any, does not appear. The libellant, as has been stated, is a servant girl, an immigrant from Germany, and about 19 years of age.

I find that she is entitled to recover for expenses of her sickness and injury to her clothing $100; for the loss of time and labor on account of the injury $100; for the expense of employing counsel to maintain this suit to recover the damages to which she is entitled $300; for the physical and mental pain and suffering caused by the injury and treatment of the libellant while on board the vessel after the accident $1,000; and for the permanent disfigurement of the libellant's face from the wound on the forehead $500. It may be that the sum of $500 is an insufficient compensation for such a blemish upon the personal appearance of the libellant. But it does not appear that the scar will affect her personal appearance so as to make her presence offensive or painful to others. For this reason it is not likely to interfere with or prevent her from obtaining employment in her calling and sphere of life. It will in no way affect her ability to labor and earn her living. In manners and appearance, she is a plain girl, moving in an humble walk in life, and not like many others dependent upon her beauty for her dowry or as a means of support.

Still the scar will be a permanent disfigurement of her person, for which she is entitled to some compensation (Karr v. Parks, 44 Cal. 49). In this country, at least it is still open to every woman, however poor or humble, to obtain a secure and independent position in the community by marriage. In that matter, which is said to be the chief end of her existence, personal appearance considered is a consideration of comparative importance in the case of every daughter of Eve.

Let a decree be entered for the libellant for the sum of $2,000 in lawful currency of the United States and the costs of suit.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 2, 1875.

BREECH-LOADING CHRISTIANITY.

A good deal has been said of late years about muscular Christianity, but that is to cease now. Hereafter it is to be trigger Christianity, or copper cartridge Christianity, or breech-loading Christianity, or something of that sort. The inauguration of the powder and lead dispensation took place at the time of the recent election of an Episcopalian bishop at Dubuque. There was a hand to hand struggle between the high church party and the low church party for the bishopric. The former were apparently willing to accept a man whose notions were not offensively high, but the latter wanted the lowest man to be had for their bishop. Dr. Eccleston was elected by one vote, and, it was charged, by a fraud at that. The election, instead of allaying the strife rather aggravated it, and the secular newspapers were drawn into the contest, and that, as would be naturally supposed, did not prove to be oil on the troubled waters. The principal charge of fraud was made against Rev. Dr. Rhea, and the Dubuque Herald, entering into the matter with a zeal which appears not to have been according to knowledge, took occasion to call the reverend gentleman a coward. Dr. Rhea, we take it, is not himself a fighting man. At all events he did not offer to administer a bodily castigation to the man who thus questioned his courage; but he had a friend who thought his honor needed vindicating, and who was willing to take that task upon himself. Accordingly next morning there appeared in the Dubuque Times, the following card:

DUBUQUE, June 1.—M. M. Ham, Esq., editor Dubuque Herald: In this morning's Herald you call the Rev. Dr. Rhea a coward, and many other names. Perhaps he is not a fighting man. But to test the amount of fighting capacity your own carcass contains, I will give you a chance at some revolver practice myself. Notify me of the time and place that best suits you, and I will be on hand.
JAMES FUNSTON.

It may be a reflection upon the journalistic profession, but truth compels us to say that the history of this affair comes to an abrupt termination with this card. The belligerent churchman was not notified of the time and place that suited, and there is ground to suspect that although the editor of the Herald had formed a correct estimate of the courage of Dr. Rhea, he was not at all anxious to give a practical demonstration of the amount of that element which had been infused into his own composition. It is needless to remark upon the reformatory influence which this new style of Christian work is destined to exert upon the morals of community.

THE WALLOWA OPENED AT LAST.

The people in the region of the Wallowa valley will be glad to have definite information that the order withdrawing the lands of that valley from sale and making it a part of an Indian reservation, has been revoked. For some time the matter has been hanging on the decision of Secretary Delano, as, of course, the President would follow the recommendation of that officer. Senator Kelly, after repeated efforts to have the matter attended to, obtained a hearing from the secretary, before whom he presented the case the day before taking his leave for Oregon, and the effort was successful, as appears by the following letter from the commissioner, and a copy of order enclosed, which Senator Kelly has just received:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19th, 1875.

SIR: Referring to your communication of the 17th ultimo, urging action relative to the settlers upon the Wallowa Valley Indian reservation, in Oregon, that they should either be paid for their improvements in accordance with the terms of the appraisement, or that they should be permitted to perfect the titles to their lands, I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of an executive order of June 16, 1873, establishing the Wallowa Valley Indian reservation, and restoring said reservation to the public domain.

Very respectfully,
your obedient servant,
H. R. CLUM,
Acting Commissioner.
Hon. James K. Kelly, U. S. Senate.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, June 10th, 1875.
It is hereby ordered that the order dated June 16th, 1873, withdrawing from sale and settlement, and setting apart the Wallowa Valley, in Oregon, described as follows: "Commencing at the right bank of the mouth of Grand Ronde river, thence up Snake river to a point due east of the southeast corner of township No. one (1), south of the base line of the surveys in Oregon, in range No. forty-six (46), east of the Willamette meridian; thence from said point due west to the west fork of the Wallowa river; thence down said west fork to its junction with the Wallowa river; thence down said river to its confluence with the Grand Ronde river; thence down the last named river to the place of beginning," as an Indian reservation, is hereby revoked and annulled, and the said described tract of country is hereby restored to the public domain.

ABOUT TALKING TO JURIES.

To charge that a jury has been packed in the interest of one of the parties, is to say that a part, at least, of the jury are corrupt men, and that the party, or his counsel, is a despicable scoundrel. Hence, we have been both surprised and pained to hear that the plaintiff in the Dolph-Watkinds libel-suit has insinuated such a suspicion respecting the jury in that case. It is not surprising that the parties, considering their present relations, and what they must have learned about each other when they sustained other relations, should watch each other with the utmost vigilance, and be ready to believe nearly anything of each other. Certainly they are both in a state of mind to be unable to weigh anything connected with the case in the scales of perfect justice; but it seems hardly within the bounds of that allowance which is always made to personal feeling, for a party to make insinuations of so grave a character, without being prepared to produce evidence giving reasonable ground, at least, for suspicion. We have not the slightest idea that any of the jurors in this case have been approached, and so far as any suspicion of an attempt of the kind could be fathomed on what has transpired in the case, we should say the indications were in another direction. The only thing, so far as we have heard, that has taken place in the trial which would point to anything of that kind, if Cottle to a question asked him by Mr. Cronin, one of Watkinds' attorneys, touching his qualifications as a juror. Cottle, who is, we believe, a juror on the the regular panel, said that on Saturday last he had a conversation with John P. Ward (Ward is deputy collector of customs, and was formerly connected with Mr. Dolph in land speculations,) who said to him, Cottle, "You must not be sick on Monday, because the Dolph-Watkinds case comes up, and you must be on hand; you will be needed on that jury." All that might have been innocently said, but the judge of the court regarded it as of sufficient importance, under the circumstances, to sustain the defendant's challenge to the juror for cause.

THE VALUE OF CHARACTER IN OREGON

PORTLAND, July 1, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The result of the libel suit of J. N. Dolph against W. H. Watkinds, is a surprise and a disappointment to me. I have just arrived in this State and do not, of course, know very much about the character of men in Oregon; but Mr. Dolph's attorneys stated that his character was above reproach. Now, if that is so, I think a jury ought to give a verdict of more than one dollar damages for the publication of the worst libel I ever saw in print about a public man. Is one dollar considered the value of a character in Oregon? If so, I want to go back to Iowa.

Yours truly, IMMIGRANT.

We are glad to be able to inform the writer of the above, that the estimate placed on personal character in Oregon is by no means so low as he has inferred. His mistake has, perhaps, arisen from too implicit reliance on the remarks of counsel in the case. The valuation of character, in this country, or elsewhere, depends on the character itself. An Oregon jury will make as complete reparation to a man whose character is defamed as an Iowa jury. We doubt if there is a case to be found in the judicial records of the State, wherein the jury has failed in this respect.

The Prohibitionists of Pennsylvania, in their State convention arraigned both the Republican and Democratic parties, for unfaithfulness to their professions respecting the regulation of the traffic in spirituous liquors. They recommend temperance people not to consider themselves bound by party nominations but to vote for such men as they deem worthy and qualified for the offices to which they aspire, regardless of party associations. This is good advice to be followed not by temperance people alone, but by everybody. There is nothing in the political situation at present that can justify the voting for a man of bad personal character, or who is unfit for the place, merely out of considerations for party.

In a case in the circuit court at Salem, last week, Judge Bonham held that the oath to a property-list, administered by a person as deputy assessor, is void. The ground of the decision is that the law does not authorize the appointment of a deputy assessor. The intention is that the assessor elected by the people shall make assessments in person and not by a deputy. The consequences flowing from this decision—which we have no doubt is sound law—may extend to the assessment roll itself. Assessors should avoid all question by doing their work themselves.

Last week there was a replevin suit for a stuffed monkey, and the jury found the value of the monkey to be 37½ cents. Yesterday the jury in the libel suit of J. N. Dolph against W. H. Watkinds decided that the plaintiff should recover $1. And now a "sanctimonious scoundrel," or something of that kind, from East Portland, has the impudence to say it has been judicially ascertained that Dolph's character is worth just five bits more than a stuffed monkey.

There is to be fun to-morrow at McMinnville. A feature of the celebration is to be the exercises of the "Ancient Tribe of Knights of Kalathumpia," who have advertised themselves in a stunning poster giving the particulars of their programme. The orator of the day is Hon. Demnicondemnationtarapociptictreaskrnenot.

The Pittsburg Leader thinks the preponderance of popular opinion in Ohio is in favor of the inflation doctrine enunciated by the Democratic State Convention.

They do say the St. Louis people feel terribly scandalized by the transfer of the seat of government of the nation from Washington to Long Branch.

PROBABLE FATAL INJURIES.—Millard F[illegible] aged about fifteen years, who liv[illegible] Eastern Oregon near John Day riv[illegible] kicked by a horse one day last week, an[illegible] feared has sustained fatal injuries. [illegible] Reed was out herding cattle at the time [illegible] accident and was entirely alone. The [illegible] kicked him in the region of the stomach [illegible] ran away leaving the boy dead to all b[illegible] appearances. After some time Millar[illegible] came conscious, but was unable to wa[illegible] account of the severe injuries. In that [illegible] tion he remained for four days and [illegible] nights without food shelter or atten[illegible] Search was made for him, as he did not r[illegible] and he was found on the fourth day in a [illegible] dying condition. His stomach and [illegible] was dreadfully swollen—nearly even wi[illegible] chin—much inflamed and very painful. [illegible] great difficulty the boy was conveyed [illegible] nearest settlement, and medical aid [illegible] moned. Word was sent to his parent[illegible] reside in East Portland, apprising the[illegible] the sad occurrence, and requesting tha[illegible] hasten to the bedside of their son. The [illegible] ligence reached the father and mother [illegible] Sunday night, and they started on the [illegible] boat early Monday morning. It was th[illegible] that the recovery of the boy was impo[illegible] when the messenger left, but the parent[illegible] in strong hopes of reaching the beds[illegible] their son before his death. Nothing ha[illegible] heard of the boy's condition since th[illegible] news was received.

SUPERINTENDENT'S VISITS.—Rey. P. C. [illegible] ler, assistant district superintendent [illegible] American Bible Society, publishes the f[illegible] ing: "Rev. CITY.

PROBABLE FATAL INJURIES.—Millard Reed, a lad aged about fifteen years, who lives in Eastern Oregon near John Day river, was kicked by a horse one day last week, and it is feared has sustained fatal injuries. Young Reed was out herding cattle at the time of the accident and was entirely alone. The horse kicked him in the region of the stomach, and ran away leaving the boy, dead to all human appearances. After some time Millard became conscious, but was unable to walk on account of the severe injuries. In that condition he remained for four days and three nights without food, shelter or attendance. Search was made for him as he did not return, and he was found on the fourth day in almost a dying condition. His stomach and breast were dreadfully swollen—nearly even with his chin—much inflamed and very painful. With great difficulty the boy was conveyed to the nearest settlement, and medical aid summoned. Word was sent to his parents who reside in East Portland, apprising them of the sad occurrence, and requesting that they hasten to the bedside of their son. The intelligence reached the father and mother late on Sunday night, and they started on the Dalles boat early Monday morning. It was thought that the recovery of the boy was impossible when the messenger left, but the parents were cherishing hopes of reaching the bedside of their son before his death. Nothing has been heard of the boy's condition since the first news was received.

SUPERINTENDENT'S VISITS.—Rev. P. C. Hetzler, assistant district superintendent of the American Bible Society, publishes the following: "Rev. John Thompson, district superintendent of the American Bible Society for the Pacific Coast, will make the following visits, preaching and delivering addresses on the Bible cause: Olympia, July 4th, preaching in the morning, and union Bible meeting in the evening; Seattle, July 11th, morning and evening; Forest Grove, July 15th, morning; Albany, July 18th, morning; Corvallis, same day, evening; Oregon City, July 22d, evening; Vancouver, July 25th, morning and evening; Salem, August 8th, morning and evening; Jacksonville, August 22d, morning; Ashland in the evening. The executive committees at Olympia, Seattle and Albany will please meet on Saturday evening before the meeting on Sabbath. The anniversary of the Clarke County Bible Society will be held July 26th, at 8 P. M., at Vancouver. The anniversary of the Marion County Bible Society, August 7th, at 8 P. M., at Salem."

OREGON GRASSES.—Hon. A. J. Dufur, centennial commissioner for Oregon, is busily engaged in procuring articles and making arrangements by which our State may be fully and practically represented at the great exhibition in 1876. He brought into our office yesterday specimens of some of the grasses of Eastern Oregon, which he is collecting for Mr. Burkhart, who has special charge of gathering and forwarding samples of the grasses and grains of the State. These specimens are six in number—native rye, foul meadow, red clover, red clover and buffalo white clover, the most of all of which would make most excellent hay or fodder, and will give a fine idea of the country's advantages for growing purposes. Some of these grasses are five feet in height, and of that quality of stalk which is most nutritious and rich feed. Any persons having native grasses of superior or unusual quality will confer a favor and further a good cause by sending samples to Mr. Burkhart at Albany, or Mr. Dufur.

PASSENGERS.—To-day, at 12 o'clock M., the steamer John L. Stephens will sail for San Francisco, carrying hence the following passengers: S. L. Marsh, F. B. Humphreys, Gen. Howard, Capt. Sladen, J. Faxon and three daughters, D. J. McPeek, A. Shivas, Thomas Harlow, Mrs. W. L. Halsey, Miss J. Roberts, E. E. Sarazin, Wm. Hall, Miss Bachelder, Miss Harding and sister, Col. R. N. Bachelder, Miss L. Stout, Miss M. E. Gibson, Miss A. Cranston, Jos. Meyer, Gen. Baum, Mrs. J. Sullivan, Mrs. Kline and child, Mrs. W. G. Gilbert, M. I. Hart and wife, E. Martin and son, Mrs. B. Brown and five children, Miss Marie S. Smith, Miss Mary M. Adams, Miss Ellen Chamberlin, Miss Lizzie Jordan, Miss Mattie Powell, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger and 20 in the steerage.

ENGAGEMENTS.—Rev. E. P. Hammond, with a company of Christian workers, proposes to visit Oregon City on Saturday, and hold religious services during some part of the day. Those of our Oregon City readers who have not seen or heard Mr. Hammond, will thus have an opportunity to do so. About two weeks ago, Western Star lodge I. O. G. T., of Albany, passed resolutions requesting Mr. Hammond to visit that city, and resolutions being forwarded to Mr. Hammond by the Secretary, Mr. A. N. Arnold. Mr. Arnold received an answer from Mr. Hammond, apologizing for neglect in not answering, and stated that in compliance with the request he will visit that city one week from next Saturday.

VALUABLE FARMING LAND.—A gentleman who resides about 18 miles east from this city, on the Sandy, informs us that there is a large tract of government land in that region which is very valuable for farming purposes. There are about ten sections of this land situated between the Sandy and the foot-hills of the Cascades. Some of this land has already been recently settled on by emigrants, who are well satisfied with their choice. The soil is black and very rich, and the land can easily be cleared of the sparse undergrowth. Our informant gave it as his opinion that emigrants who came here seeking for permanent homes, cannot settle more advantageously than by taking up this land.

BISHOP PECK'S APPOINTMENTS.—The following is a list of the appointments of Bishop Peck is published in the P. C. Advocate; Portland, July 4th; Salem, 7th; Junction City, 9th; Eugene City, 11th; Hillsboro, 13th; Forest Grove, 15th; McMinnville, 18th; Vancouver, 20th; Dalles, session E. O. and W. conference, 21th; Dalles, conference Sunday, August 1st; Tuesday, 8th; Salem, session Oregon conference, 11th; Salem, conference Sunday, 15th; take steamer after close of conference for California.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO HILLSBORO.—A special train will start from the corner of Stark street this morning at 8 o'clock for Forest Grove, to carry Rev. E. P. Hammond and such friends as may wish to accompany him to hold religious services during the day in that village. Fare for the round trip, $1 25. Passengers will be received at the "Fourth street siding." The train will return in time for the evening meeting at the Rink. Visitors are advised to carry their luncheon and copies of the "Song Evangel."

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.—Trinity church was the scene of another fashionable wedding last evening. The parties directly interested were Mr. E. H. C. Taylor and Hortense V., daughter of P. Van Fridagh, Esq., all of this city. A large number of invited guests and friends were present during the ceremonies, which were of an impressive character. At the close the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's parents, on Washington street, where the reception was held.

NUMBER OF ARRESTS.—During June, the following arrests have been made by the police department of Portland: Drunk and disorderly, 44; larceny, 6; assault with a dangerous weapon, 3; violation of ordinance, 1,145; assault and battery, 4; malicious injury to personal property, 1; abusive language, 1; offering to bribe a judicial officer, 1; assault with intent to commit rape, 1; insane, 1; perjury, 2; vagrancy, 1.

ALMOST A FIRE.—A person from Fort Stevens reported to us that the large wharf at that place had a very narrow escape from fire on Monday. The gangway and other wood work was burned before the blaze could be extinguished. The supposition is that a spark from the tug, which passed early in the morning, fell among some dry material and smouldered for some time, before breaking out. Damage slight.

PUBLIC SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—This evening an exhibition will be given by the public schools at Masonic Hall. An extended programme has been issued, which will no doubt be interesting. An admission fee will be charged, the proceeds to be applied to purchase a library. No doubt the hall will be crowded.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, July 1, 1875:

	7 A. M.	2 P. M.	9 P. M.
Thermometer	56°	66°	57°
Wind, direction	S.	N.E.	N.W.
Wind, velocity	5	4	3
Weather	Cloudy.	Fair.	Fair.

DEDICATION.—Says the Catholic Sentinel: "On Monday, the 19th inst., the interesting ceremonies of dedicating St. Vincent's Hospital will take place in this city. Invitations will be extended to several societies to participate, and the day will be rendered one of profit and pleasure to all."

BOYS IN DANGER.—A gentleman residing in the southern part of the city informs us that a number of rude boys are in the habit of going to his place at a late hour in the night to steal cherries. They have been "spotted," and will be exposed and punished if the offense is repeated.

SERMON TO THE CHILDREN.—Bishop Peck will preach to the children at the Taylor-street M. E. Church on Sabbath afternoon or evening next. On Monday at 2 P. M., he will address the youth and children and on Tuesday at 2 P. M., will speak to the members of the church.

INVITED.—Willamettes have invited Albany Engine Company No. 1 to be present on the occasion of the celebration of the 22d anniversary of that company, which transpires on the 3d of August next, and the invitation has been accepted.

BRIEF NOTES.

A new sidewalk is being laid on the west side of the Cosmopolitan Hotel.

Seven hundred and eighty tons of assorted cargo were brought up on the John L. Stephens

A number of young ladies who reside in Salem will take their departure to-day for San Francisco on a short visit.

Bishop Peck arrived in this city yesterday morning and is the guest of Mr. E. J. Northrup, Madison between Seventh and East Park streets.

A white meadow lark was caught by N. Darling, near Damascus, last week. It was brought to Mr. Roop, taxidermist, who will stuff it.

The little sidewheel steamer Henrietta which was sunk on the east side of the river some days ago, has been raised and will soon be ready for service again.

Wednesday a little girl about six years old, daughter of Mr. Therkelsen, the builder, was run over or against by a street contractor's dirt cart, driven by a boy, and very severely injured.

Samaritan Lodge I. O. O. F., elected the following officers Wednesday evening: C. E. Sitton, N. G.; Martin Osvold, V. G.; John Garnold, Recording Secretary; C. R. Hoffman, Treasurer.

The police uniforms ordered some time since arrived on the steamer. These articles consist of caps, belts, clubs and badges, and are purchased by the police force individually, and not by the city.

While turning somersaults Wednesday evening, a boy by the name of Young, residing at Milwaukie, dislocated the ulna in the elbow joint of his right arm. Dr. Raffety, of East Portland, attended the boy and reduced the dislocation.

Mr. Geo. C. Rider returned yesterday from an Eastern trip through Kansas and other States. He reports the grasshoppers as too lively for him, and adds that hundreds are coming to Oregon in consequence of the unfavorable state of affairs in several States.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Gilder gives a concert this evening at Vancouver, on which occasion the following artists will appear: Mrs. Eugenie Babcox, Miss Blanche Galton and Mr. Thos. Whiffin. We promise a good concert.

A large and cultivated audience was present last evening at the theater on the occasion of the last appearance of the Lingards, and the close of the brief, but decidedly prosperous season. "A Life's Dream," and "The Weavers," constituted the performance for the evening. Both plays were rendered remarkably well, and gave entire satisfaction, if frequent applause can be regarded as evidence of approval. This evening the Lingards will perform at Salem, appearing in "Naval Engagements" and "A Day After the Wedding." At the close of the performance, the Company will board a special train and come down, arriving at Portland in time to take the morning boat for Astoria and overhaul the ocean steamer before she passes out to sea. The brief engagement of the Lingards at New Market theater has been successful, far beyond the anticipation of the most sanguine. In a great measure, the degree of success which has attended the season, can be attributed to the careful, judicious management of Mrs. F. M. Phelps, who deserves great credit for the enterprise shown in affording those who can admire and appreciate the drama an opportunity of witnessing the celebrated Lingards in their specialties.

BALL AND BAT.

A "nine" from this city are prepared to meet the Salem nine on the diamond field at Oregon City to contest for the prize offered by the citizens of that place. One of the liveliest games ever played in Oregon may be expected. The steamer Vancouver has been chartered to leave this city at an early hour Monday morning for Oregon City. The game promises to be one of the most exciting contests of the season.

The following is in response to the challenge from the Salem nine: "To Messrs. Belt, McCully and others of the Salem Nine—Gentlemen: Your challenge to play a game of base ball at Oregon City, July 5, 1875, for a prize, is hereby accepted by the following nine: W. F. D. Burnside, John Bird, W. F. Mathews, R. H. Thompson, Al Raleigh, L. H. Hopkins, H. W. Cushing, John Raleigh, W. S. Whiting." The Salem nine are requested to name umpires.

PUYALLUP CELEBRATION.

We are in receipt of a letter from Peter C. Stanup, an Indian boy on the Puyallup reservation, W. T., in which he says,—and we give his letter verbatim: "The Indians on this Reserve are preparing for the coming Fourth. The celebration will be on Saturday, July 3d. They have been donated four beeves to be barbacued on our celebration. And some of the boys will read the Declaration of Independence and may be our new instrument discovery will be played by the very boy that discovered it (Kanaka boy). The new musical instrument was an old musket barrel, in which the boy, halooing by the tube of the musket, he can play in some parts of a tune, but Yan-kee-doo-dle-dan-dy was being the principal one."

THE TURF.

Bacon's young Hambletonian is still growing and looks remarkably fine this season.

There does not seem to be much prospect of a match between Foster and Osceola this season.

The following animals are in training on the Walla Walla track—many of them already famous for their speed: Badger Boy, Bellfounder colt, four years old; Bell Brandon, Blue Mountain Boy, Snow Storm, Black Bess, Molly, Mark Twain, Stonewall Jackson, Slim Jim, Bellfounder Chief, Henry; Susie, Crab Apple Jack, Mayflower, Thoroughbred, Glassford's three Bellfounder colts—Trifle, Rube and the Sorrel Mare.

AUTHORIZATIONS.

Bill of $228 15, for seventeen oil lamps was ordered paid.

P. G. Baker's bills for $225 for work on improvements on Yamhill and Second streets, and $220 for work on improvements on Main and Second streets, were ordered paid.

Mr. R. R. Thompson moved that when the council adjourned it be until July 2d, at 8 o'clock P. M.

A resolution was introduced and passed authorizing the appropriation of $180 to defray the expenses of the Portland Light Battery in firing a salute on the Fourth of July.

Councilman Joseph R. Wiley suggested that the infantry companies expected the city to appropriate money to defray part of the expense incurred by them for celebration, fireworks, etc., on the Fourth.

Whereupon Councilman Besser presented a request of the military committee, consisting of Capt. H. Cook, Capt. T. Mountain, Capt. J. Storan and Capt. C. C. Phillips, for an appropriation of $135 to help pay the expense of music and fireworks on the occasion of the Fourth of July celebration.

His Honor, the Mayor, said he would defer what communications he had to make to the City Council till to-morrow evening.

Adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary M. Adams, whose literary contributions of prose and verse to the press of this State, over the nom de plume of "Mem Linton," have been so extensively read and so warmly eulogized, will take her departure to-day on the steamer for San Francisco. After remaining a few days at the Bay, Miss Adams will take her departure for Virginia City, Nevada, where she has friends residing. Miss Adams has held the responsible position of preceptress and teacher of modern languages at the Wallamet University for the past five years in the most creditable manner to herself and highly satisfactory to the Faculty. She is a young lady of rare literary talents, of high scholastic attainments, and possessed of remarkable social accomplishments. During her sojourn in Salem she has won the esteem, confidence and admiration of a very large circle of friends. It is more than probable that Miss Adams will not return to this State, having tendered a conditional resignation of the preceptreship of the institution with which she has so long and honorably been connected; and it is with much regret that the present faculty and patrons of the university part with her valuable services. Whether her stay shall prove temporary or permanent, the young lady will carry hence with her the warmest wishes of a host of friends. Miss Ellen J. Chamberlin, who has been connected for some years with the university in the academical department, accompanies Miss Adams. Also, Miss Marie Smith and Miss Mattie Powell, both of whom are connected with the public schools of Salem in the capacity of instructors. These last named young ladies go on a brief visit to the Golden City. A pleasant voyage and safe return.

AT THE GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city, at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths' Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, "Great Eastern Clothing Store," W. HARRIS, Proprietor, 125 First street.

Big Bonanza's are all very well in their way, but that popular dealer in Clothing, JOS. KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is content to serve his many patrons and the public in general with the very latest goods in his line, and to give the purchaser the benefit of low prices during the dull times. His stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, etc., was never more complete. You will never regret your purchases at Kohn's. Call to-day.

The railroad war and other events that have occupied the attention of the public for day's past were nothing as compared with the excitement created by BECK & WALDMAN, the well-known Clothiers, who are selling their Summer Stock of Clothing, Men and Boys' wear, at fearfully low prices. Before making a purchase step into their place and see what they can do for you. The stock of furnishing goods at this house is complete.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Ladies who wish to have their own hair braided, made into switches, or worked up into any kind of ornamental work for use or preservation, will do well to call on or send to Mrs. LARSON, Morrison street, between Second and Third. She does all such work very neatly and upon reasonable terms. e2 dlm

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed, WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second, will serve Rare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING, their own preparation, is meeting with great favor. Try it.

PLEASURE BOATS.

I have a number of Sail and Row Boats ready at any moment to let at reasonable charges. Boats made to order.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The attendance at the morning praise meeting fell off considerably, but what the meeting lacked in numbers was made up in the dash and vim of those present. The Rev. Mr. Marsh, of Forest Grove, gave a short reading from the Bible, followed by a few general remarks, after which Mr. Hammond spoke of the meeting to be held at Forest Grove to-day. An extra train has been chartered and will leave the corner of Stark and Fourth street at 8 o'clock this morning, carrying all who wish to go for half fare. He urged upon Christians the necessity and importance of these aggressive raids upon the neighboring villages, and scattering the seeds of truth and giving to hungry souls the Word of Life. Dr. Lindsley said this was but carrying out the apostolic method which began at Jerusalem, and was in hopes that there would be a hundred instead of fifty, and that while there you will take hold and work, and try and set the town on fire with zeal and energy for Christ. Several striking illustrations were given of the power of prevailing prayer. Song, prayer and praise occupied the remainder of the time until nearly 11 o'clock, and many lingered even then.

Last evening, a large number of children gathered at the rink at the hour of 7. An hour was spent in singing, and listening to remarks from Mr. Baker and Mr. Hammond. Several stories and illustrations were given for the purpose of showing to the children the meaning of a new heart, and several definitions of a new heart were giving to them. If you love Jesus you will have loving hearts, praying hearts, believing hearts, trusting hearts and singing hearts—why, your heart will be like a music box that is always wound up, you can't help singing. It will come out in spite of you. Yes, and you will have a working heart. Why, some of the very best workers I have ever had to help me were little children.

After prayer, the children were dismissed, while the whole congregation joined in singing "Hold the Fort." The chorus was repeated three times. Mr. Hammond then commenced the work of the evening by reading from the book of Joshua describing the entrance of the children of Israel into the Promised Land and the fall of Jericho. Then, taking his text from Acts, 9 and 4, "Lord, what will thou have me to do." During the Napoleonic wars, and while a battle was raging, a general rushed into the presence of Napoleon saying, "Sire, we have taken a battalion." No attention was paid to him. Again he repeated his message, but no attention was paid to him. Again, with more emphasis than before, he repeated his message, "Sire, we've taken a battalion." Napoleon turned around, and in his laconic style said, "go and take another." And this is what I say to you. Five hundred have signed the covenant. You say yes, they have; and see to it that 500 more sign it. Keep right on with the work, the battle is still raging. I will improvise a song for you, one that is easy and simple and one you will have no trouble in remembering. There is forty odd verses in it, and reads like this: "Go on, go on, go on;" and I want all who feel like coming up here next Sunday night, and then for five nights next week, and help your pastors to hold union meetings here to rise up and sing the first verse. One thousand at least joined in with their voices and made the old rink ring with the words "Go on, go on." He then spoke a few moments with great earnestness to the Christians and young converts words of advice caution and entreaty. Rev. Mr. Thompson came forward and made a few remarks for the revival committee preparing the way for a collection. Envelopes had been prepared for distribution among the audience to be returned on Friday evening. After the interruption, Mr. H. resumed his remarks to young converts. At the close he gave a few words of earnest exhortation to the unbelievers, trying to show the folly of trying to save themselves but to let Jesus do it for you. An inquiry was then held. Morning meeting as usual. To-night will probably close Mr. H.'s labors in Portland, and it is intended to make the meeting to-night a grand jubilee.

Health is Capital.

Who can doubt it? Do we not every day see the vigorous and clear-headed pushing on to fortune, and the feeble and brain-befogged tarrying by the way? Health gives energy, vim. What a healthy mind conceives, a healthy body is prompt to execute. Difficulties which deter the invalid altogether, the vigorous man surmounts at a bound. If we would be successful, let us first be healthy. The initial step to be taken toward arriving at that condition, is to rally the falling energies of the system. As a renovant of decaying vital power, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be justly recommended in preference to all other tonics, since its superiority as an invigorant is the subject of daily demonstration. But it is far more than a simple recuperant of physical strength; it is a prompt remedy for bodily irregularities, particularly of the stomach, bowels and liver and a reliable preventive of maladies begotten of miasma, impure water, exposure and exhaustion, the bad effects of which it invariably counteracts.

"What is the matter?" said a man lately to his neighbor. "Only a little cold," was the reply. "A little cold?" was the rejoinder; little colds lead a great way; cure it." WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will cure it. You cannot take it too soon, and save yourself lingering months of painful and gradual dissolution.

MASONIC TRIBUTE OF REGARD TO HIS MEMORY.

To the Brethren of Olympia Lodge No. 1, and Harmony Lodge No. 18, A. F. M., in joint meeting assembled:

The Committee appointed by the joint meeting of the two Lodges, to prepare a fitting tribute of respect to the memory of our late Brother, Hon. O. B. McFADDEN, who departed this life on Friday, June 25th, A. D. 1875, A. L. 5875, beg leave to report:

That—In the event which has spread such general grief throughout our Territory, taking from our midst an eminent public man; her foremost citizen; him who probably was most generally beloved by the masses of our people; one who

"Was a scholar, and a ripe and good one,
Exceeding wise, fair-spoken and persuading,"—

We are again reminded of the certainty of death, that no one, however exalted, is exempt from the payment of the great debt of nature.

Brother Obadiah B. McFadden was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, November 18, 1814, where he continued to reside until the summer of 1853, when, having been appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of Oregon Territory, he migrated thither. In 1854, he was transferred to the Supreme Bench of this Territory, filling the positions of Associate and Chief Justice until the fall of 1861, and acquiring for himself a distinguished reputation for ability, learning and thorough integrity. Since then he served with distinction in the Territorial and National Legislatures. In all positions, whether as attorney or public servant, he was alike faithful and zealous in the discharge of every trust, did his full measure of duty, earned credit for himself and did honor to those by whom he was selected.

Marked as were his abilities and acquirements, he even won greater distinction, exerted more influence, accomplished greater triumphs by his pre-eminent social and genial nature—a magnetism which provoked regard, commanded deference—a paternal, jovial, out-gushing good-nature, attracting all who came in contact. But he has left; and memory delights to dwell on the many reminiscences of his useful career—his eloquence in Court and on the stump, his venerable appearance, his silver locks, his hearty countenance beaming with love for all. For us who more intimately enjoyed his friendship, how difficult the realization, how full of pain the thought, "that the place that has known him shall know him no more."

Brother McFadden received the degrees of Masonry in his native State; he formerly belonged to Washington Lodge No. 4, of this jurisdiction. In 1858, as the Representative of that Lodge, he actively participated in the Convention which formed the M. W. Grand Lodge of Washington. Shortly afterwards, Lewis county becoming his residence, his membership with the Fraternity was dissolved. Distance from place of holding Lodge, professional and other duties necessitated absence from home a great portion of his time, delaying the joining of another Lodge; but no man was more imbued with the holy charity of our noble Institution, more thoroughly appreciated its philosophy and ritual, more faithfully practised its tenets, or better illustrated its spirit, than did our distinguished Brother.

A large family survives to mourn his demise. To the stricken widow and children, in this hour of their desolation, we extend our most fraternal sympathy and condolence.

As a tribute to the memory of our departed Brother, let this brief notice be inscribed upon the minutes of the two Lodges, and an engrossed copy thereof, signed by the respective W. Ms. and Secretaries, be transmitted to the widow and family of our late lamented friend.

And as an additional mark of our fraternal grief, Be it Resolved, That the respective Lodges be draped, and that the members thereof wear the usual badge of mourning for one lunar month.

OREGON.

The marshal of Salem made only five arrests in June

A Plummer fruit drying establishment is on the tapis at Oregon City

The Democratic county committee for Clackamas county will meet at Oregon City next week

On last Sunday the mercury stood at 89° in the shade at Baker City—about 105° higher than it was at a certain time last winter

Two Burleigh drills, air compressors and two boilers and engines are to be added to the machinery at the Virtue mine in Baker county

Rev J H Roork has been appointed financial agent for the University for the coming year Rev C W Shaw having resigned that position

The Lincoln Warehouse and Shipping Company held their annual meeting June 26th and elected W M Walker, Thomas Pearce and A M Holmes, directors for the ensuing year

A son of W T Cross of Salem, fell into a well last Wednesday, but by the aid of some of the ladies in the neighborhood and by manfully climbing up the pump log he got out a good deal frightened, very wet but without injury

The recorder of Salem issued during the month of June the following licenses Three to retail spirituous liquors by the quart, one to sell malt liquors by the quart or gallon, one billiard table, one two horse team and one concert exhibition

The Oregon City Woolen Company are pushing their building for the wool-pickers to a rapid completion and will have it ready by the time the new pickers arrive The new building while it will not be fire-proof, will be less liable to fire than formerly, and steam pipes will be arranged so as to extinguish fire instantly

Last Friday, while Mr R Pigg and family, who live near Eola, were at the camp-meeting at Dixie, their house was broken open and ransacked The thief took $9 in coin, belonging to a hired man on the place, that was in a trunk but did not disturb anything else No suspicion attaches to any one although it is evident that the robber was well acquainted with the surroundings of the place

The Cutting and Packing Company, on the Columbia, now have the largest net ever put out in the river It is 340 fathoms (2 040 feet) long It is tended by W J. Barry, of Sacramento, and Joe Huntley, of Augusta, Maine, who thoroughly understand their business, and they take from two hundred to three hundred fine salmon each time they put out their net

Mr George Hammond, of Middlebury, Vermont, says the Record, the gentleman who has earned so enviable a reputation in this country as a breeder of fine wooled sheep and who in connection with Hon J L Orcutt of Massachusetts, has been doing so much to increase the value of California wools by the introduction of Merino blood, has for the past few days been looking over this valley with a view of establishing an agency where reliable breeding animals, direct from Vermont and the East, may be had, and also to see what arrangements may be made for the future purchase of wool in our midst

In regard to financial matters in our home market there is apparently no cause to excite any active movement, and in the absence of any demand of magnitude with a fair supply of available funds rates show no tendency to appreciate The banks are doing a fair amount of counter business, but transactions are generally local, and taken singly are small in amount. Until the harvest begins trade and finances will be apt to remain in their present quiet state, and in the meantime matters will we predict so develop that a fair season's business will open up in nearly all departments. With good crops, a large immigration and a reasonably easy condition of the money market, we see no reason why matters should not brighten up very materially after the dull season which usually intervenes between the close of the business of the spring and the opening of the fall trade.

Wheat Markets and Crops.

The New York Produce Exchange Weekly of June 15th is at hand, and from its carefully prepared columns we cull the following, in relation to the wheat crops and markets in the various grain centers of the world From the facts given we may form an an approximate idea of the future course of the market, both at home and abroad On the 12th of June this year there were at the principal points of accumulation at lake and seaboard ports in the United States and in transit by rail, 10 402 217 bushels of wheat, against 8 093 202 bushels June 8th 1874 The receipts at seaboard ports for the week were 1 797 122 bushels vs 2 107 693 bushels for the previous week and 2 620,548 bushels for the corresponding week in 1874 The export clearances from seaboard ports for the week were 1,462 860 bushels vs 1,263,955 bushels the previous week and 3,886 311 bushels in the last four weeks, against 1,733 881 bushels in the previous four weeks The clearances for the continent for the week were 13,313 bushels. The demand for that portion of Europe was checked at the close, indicating only a temporary demand

The supply of wheat and flour during the four weeks ended May 29th, 1875 was 220 446 quarters more than the consumption The consumption during the eight weeks from April 10th to May 29th is placed at 3,384,000 qrs. vs 3 839 968 qrs supply from home deliveries and imports indicating an approximate surplus in eight weeks of 455 968 qrs., which is equal to 3 647,744 bushels, or 455,976 bushels weekly average surplus

Vienna advices of June 1st report that during the last half of May the weather had been fine, but too dry, but this was followed by an abundant rain fall all over Austria and Hungary, giving increased confidence in good crops

Stock of grain in Stettin, Germany June 1, 1875 Wheat, 40,000 qrs. rye, 4 000 qrs. barley 11 500 qrs, peas 600 qrs, oats 3000 qrs.

Advices by mail from France under date of the 2d inst., indicate that in the southern portion of that country the promise of the wheat crop is very satisfactory, and that it was making rapid strides toward maturity, but in the neighborhood of Toulouse, owing to the storms of the Saturday and Sunday previous, a third of the wheat crop had been beaten down over a large area in that locality, which caused a higher range in the values of wheat at Toulouse and in the north From the Lamonsen district the crop reports were satisfactory, which fact partly accounted for the large supplies at the markets and the dullness of trade

It has been reported from Lousanne, Switzerland, that the crop of wheat and oats had a very fine appearance but more rain was needed

In Holland the appearance of the crops at the beginning of June was satisfactory, but greater humidity was needed, especially for pastures and spring crops.

The weather in Hamburg, Germany the last week in May had been rather cold accompanied by heavy showers of rain, which were succeeded by fine weather seasonable for the growing crops giving good promise of an abundant harvest

At Paris France, on the 1st ult the reports received in regard to the growing crops were not very satisfactory and the complaints of farmers tended to an improvement in prices

At Rostock, Germany on the 31st of May, the weather had been all that could be desired for the growing crops. Supplies in the Upper Baltic were large but small at the lower ports and stock light which had buoyed up prices.

At Rotterdam, Holland on the 31st of May, the weather for a week had been occasionally very cool followed by warm showers, which favorably developed the growing crops. Offers of spot rye scarce, holders firm

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—In no important respect has our home market changed during the past fortnight. There is doubtless quite a large surplus of wheat yet in the State beyond the requirements for home consumption some estimating it at 200 000 bushels but offers to sell are rare and generally at a figure materially in advance of exporters or millers bids Quotations are nominal at the figures we gave last week $1 50 per cental though some offers do not go so high and others are more

FLOUR—The stocks on hand in this market are not large and prices are quite firm at $5 ₩ bbl for standard brands of extra, $4 50@4 75 for outside and choice country $4 for superfine Shipments are not so large and except some lots to northern ports and a few more invoices to San Francisco but little will leave the State until harvest except the cargo of the ship City of Vienna now nearly loaded by the Salem Milling Company The local trade is moderately active

OATS—There is but little doing in this cereal the old crop being well nigh exhausted and the demand being less urgent The few lots however which have been offered during the past week have generally been freely taken at our former quotations of 50@55c ₩ bushel The new crop is said to be very promising and the surplus for export after harvest it is claimed will be larger than ever before

BARLEY—We hear of no transactions to establish prices and we quote nominal at $1 ₩ cwt for common and $1 40@1 1-

MILL FEED—There is still a tendency to a reduced demand We quote bran at $15@16 50 ₩ ton shorts $22@25 chops middlings etc $27 50@30 oil cake meal, $40 with but little in market

HAY—A full supply is in the market quotable at $10@11 ₩ ton for fair to best timothy loose and $11@12 baled

POTATOES—The market is in fair supply at 75 @ 81 ₩ bushel for new and 2c ₩ lb for old

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable at 2c ₩ lb nominally

APPLES (Dried)—There is a fair demand for fair lots either in sacks or kegs the latter preferred at 7c ₩ lb Exports are increasing

BACON—Sides are held at our former quotations of 11@12c ₩ lb and are in full supply shoulders are unchanged from 8@8½c while the market is over stocked with hams and quotations for common lots are 10@12c ₩ lb though they must be a little extra to command the latter figure

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₩ lb in kegs or tins but no sign of an advance

BUTTER—We quote fair to choice roll at 22@25c ₩ lb extra print for table use, 30@35c, common solid 18@20c

EGGS—The supply is fair but the quality is much inferior Buyers are cautious and holders who can give any warranty of freshness find but little difficulty in placing at 20c ₩ dozen

CHICKENS—The market is fairly supplied at $2@2 25 ₩ dozen for spring and $5 50@6 for full grown

BEEF CATTLE—Live cattle in fair condition are quotable at 2½@3c ₩ lb on foot or dressed at 5@6c

HIDES AND FURS—Prices for hides are still down on account of the many damaged lots reaching the market Undamaged are quoted at 1½c ₩ lb for dry beef hides 6c for green culls 5@10c elk 18 @20c ₩ lb deer, 18@35c ₩ lb dried and 50@75c apiece green mink skins each $1 50 otter $1@5 beaver 75c@$1

WOOL—The receipts have been well kept up during the week and prices have undergone little or no change We quote Wallamet Valley wool at 21c ₩ lb with an advance of 1@2c for extra choice That from east of the mountains is hardly so good, and is quotable at 20@22c

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin St Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules Blotches, Boils Tumors Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain in the Bones Side and Head Female weakness Sterility Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility With their departure health returns

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual or desirable

Dr A A Hayes State Assayer of Massachusetts says of it I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

Buckingham's Dye,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black at discretion It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.
